

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

It looks as though there will soon be three international conferences studying the wheat situation.

The London Wheat Committee is holding similar meetings. United States wheat exporters, at a conference, and now still attending a meeting has been called by Manabito. These separate international conferences are being held in order to deal with the undistributed wheat surplus of the United States, Canada and Argentina. The probable result of the meetings will be an effort to persuade Canadian and Argentine exporters to divide their wheat as (Argentina's wheat surplus she will not reduce her share).

Certain large European countries are holding similar conferences with a view to reducing their production of wheat, corn, cheese, lard, vegetables and other commodities. It is probable that more wheat (for more people can be fed) than wheat than with livestock products grown on the same acres).

One of the main purposes of the proposed meetings, one might say, and hold joint international conference) and the concentrated on making plans to exchange surplus wheat of Canada and the United States with the surplus wheat and products of the European countries which they would like to send to
